

Private Instructor List for Instrumental Music

Updated May 2019

Parents and Band Students,

The most effective way to continue musical progress, especially over summer vacation, is to take private music lessons. A private music instructor will provide the student with individual attention that is otherwise not available in the large group lessons at School. This is a great way for those who are behind to catch up, those who want to continue on the right path, and those who are excelling to hone their skills even further. Fees for private lessons generally run between $6 and $20 per week for a half hour lesson. Costs, day and time are generally agreed upon with the instructor. Listed below are names of qualified teachers in our area. Please take advantage of this opportunity to enhance your child's musical progress.
